'GUNMAN' THREATENS KLOKARD HAYWOOD

Klan Organizer Tells of Threats and of Being Shadowed.

REPUDIATES WARNING

Says That His Organization Never Intimidated Edward S. Brogan.

District Attorney Trying to Find if Note to Candidate Is Authentic.

Rev. Dr. Oscar Haywood, local Klokard for the Ku Klux Klan. He also is receiving threatening letters, one of which, whose contents the Klokard refuses to divulge, was written by a negro who signed himself "Chief of the Gunmen."

Another letter came from an unclassified white man who let it be known with a burning pen that he bears little love for Klans and their Klokards. Dr. Haywood did not make this letter public either.

The Klokard let these things be known vesterday after he saw a letter alleged to have been written last September to Edward S. Brogan, who was a candidate in the primaries for the Democratic nomination for General

Ferdinand Pecora, Assistant Distract Attorney, showed photostatic copies of the letter, saying he hoped to prove it a genuine Klan warning, and that it constituted the offense the Prosecutor's office needs to proceed against the Klan as a body.

"Your persecutions of the Ku Klux Klan has reached its limit. We have stood silently by while you maligned us through one campaign. Now it must cease.

Mr. Pecora said he was considering the advisability of calling Dr. Haywood to his office to view the letter. Also Mr. Pecora would like the Klokard to identify, if he will or can, New York Klan No. 51 or 21, which unit of the Invisible Empire is supposed *to have warned Brogan to "drop from the race" or suffer dire consequences. To which the Klokard replied, scoffingly:

"No member of the Klan wrote any such letter at any time. No, I don't know where Klan 51 or 21 is located I do not know where any Klan is located. I don't know a member of the Klan here in New York city."

"That's strange," the doctor's interviewer ventured. "You're one of the Klan organizers, aren't you?"

viewer ventured. "You're one of the Klan organizers, aren't you?"
"No, I'm not." snapped Dr. Haywood.
"I'm a lecturer. I'm not an organizer. No klansman ever wrote that Brogan letter. We never threaten people. But I've been threatened. Also men are following me. I'd say that the white man who wrote me was a religionist. Maybe it couldn't be construed as a threat either. Anyway I'd say from the tone of the letter that a Roman Catholic wrote it.

"Well, why are you following me?"
"T'm not following you,' he said.

He was a huge man and apparently a Jew. But the young lady floor clerk stopped him. He stopped but asked her whether it was my room that he saw me enter."

"Why don't you appeal to the District Attorney or the police?" the Klokard was asked.

"No, no," he protested, "I have but one life to give and if need be I shall give it in a good cause."

Mr. Pecora did not make great progress for the day in his researches into the mysterious ways of the Klansman. He said he had talked to one man—a

The Senate Commerce Committee fought over the proposition most of the afternoon despite the fact that the President had addressed a vigorous protest against the Madden amendment to Chairman Jones. Three Republican Senators, McNary (Ore.), Willis (Ohio) and Lenroot (Wis.), proposed a compromise providing that no increase should be made to the original amount allocated to a shipping company from the revolving fund created without the direct authorization of Congress.
